The Blue Lotus

The competition went to its last day and the final game —— Female Bouldering Final officially started. It was the time to determine the outcome and also the time to say goodbye. Players were only calmer than they had been in the past few days. After a six-day-stay in China they had already adapted to the climate in China, the canteen in Donghua University and the racing track in the gymnasium. In the final dash, there was no arrogant and rash in everyone's mind. Every girl was a blue lotus blooming on the cliff.

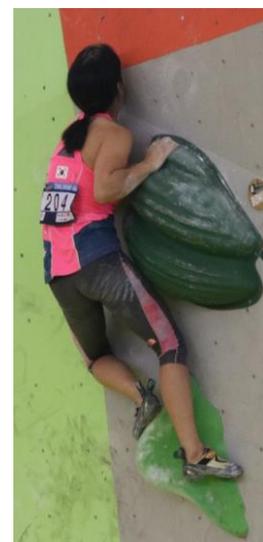

Not a single girl has ever relaxed. They still got down to each step upward, slowly but surely, merging techniques with strength together in a perfect way. Despite the mistakes and fall from the climbing wall, they never felt depressed for the failure. It was a new experience and an even better experience; it was the stepping-stone which helped them climb higher. The audience cheered for them. At this time, we had no difference of nationality and race and we were all one, and we were all determined to get on. I prayed that all of us would get much stronger, both physically and mentally. We came from different parts of the world, but we all gathered here thanks to rock climbing. It is rock climbing that granted us the belief to climb higher.

During the competition, every team had played to the strength. For instance, the United States performed splendidly and France surprised us. Let us acclaim every single athlete for their wonderful performance.

The game is more than a fierce competition filled with tears and hurts, it is also a broad platform where the players could obtain the sincere friendship and the best wishes from all over the world. “Nothing can ever block my longing for liberty!” The persisting figures were blue lotuses which would never fade away.

Polish Rose——Anna Brozek

Oct 14th, 2016 was the third day of the First World University Rock Climbing Championships and it was a rainy day. However, as soon as the weather improved, the Spiderman’s climbing show got put on stage again. Various difficult actions could be continually seen to the cheers of the crowd.

In the afternoon of Oct 14th, the journalist met the four members from Poland in the book bar of the student activity center and had an interview with Anna Brozek who won the top prize of women’s competition. This time the Polish team has won both the championship and the second prize.

Anna is a blonde girl with smile on her face and in high spirit. As the champion of women’s competition, she expressed her great sense of honor and pleasure to the journalist and praised the game for its internationalization, high standard and the extraordinary arrangement of Donghua University.

Anna was satisfied with her score this time and felt very proud. When it comes to the competitions in the future, she said that she would try her best to promote her rock climbing skills. The one who impressed Anna most was Harcim, an athlete who was a world-class rock climbing champion. She enjoyed a lot when training together with Harcim. Then, she shared her experience on rock climbing and she thought the key to rock climbing competitions was training more frequently and keeping sober and calm when taking part in the competition, which benefited us a lot.

When the journalist asked Anna whether she had ever thought about giving up, Anna, like many other athletes, said that she had never thought about that. She believed that rock climbing could bring her great enjoyment and she was also interested in it, therefore, she would never give up the sport due to difficulties.

When the journalist asked her about her impression on Shanghai, she referred that it was not her first time in Shanghai and praised the city for its internationalization and modernization. She also talked about the popularization of English here and, therefore, she interacted delightedly with all the citizens, which made them feel at home. She especially mentioned the delicious snacks in Yu Garden in Shanghai and said that she enjoyed spicy food very much.

Although the communication with Anna was transient, it was unforgettable and benefited us a lot. The rock climbing competition was a great opportunity to break the boundaries between nations and surmount language obstacles. We sincerely hope that Anna can make more outstanding achievements in the competitions in future!

Man of the Day——Stanislav Kokorin

Remember that handsome Russian boy? Remember he climbed to the top within 6.11 seconds in speed? It has been 15 years since Kokorin Stanislav began climbing at the age of 11 by her mother's guidance. The 6.11 seconds is not his best result, peacetime training, he will be able to achieve the fastest speed of 5.85 seconds.

Stanislav Kokorin mentioned his Chinese friends----Zhong Qixin in particular. Zhong is the captain of the Chinese National rock climbing team, they met in 2008, and then keep in touch to get a deep friendship. Zhong invited him to his home Kunming in winter this year.

Stanislav Kokorin liked the building of Songjing of Donghua University. In particular, the architectural design of modern sense and comprehensive sports facilities. He hoped to see the lake lotus bloom when he come to Donghua next year. He thought the volunteers are all very clever. There was no problem in communication, and he would see the English briefing every day to get some more information.

For the competition, he particularly liked our rock design. The difficulty design and color matching, can be called art.

He hoped that next year's race will be more relaxed. Between the two types of games there could have a day of free time, so that they could have sufficient time to adjust and rest.

In the end, he said he would have been engaged in climbing as : professional athletes, coaches and so on. Let's congratulate him on his good results, and hope that he can continue to develop after the day.

An Interview of Julia Chanourdie

The first sight of Julia makes people think of girly girl as she smiles and answers the reporter's questions in a cordial tone.

Julia who ranks the 1st on the fourth day's lead semi-final becomes the champion of the lead final today. She says she is excited to compete with the competitors from all over the world and win the champion. She is quite satisfied with her performance. Although it's the first time for her to come to China as well as Donghua University, she is embraced with hospitality and warmth in the strange place. In the competition, there are boosting and pumping around, and when she becomes the last winner, there are cheers and congratulations. She enjoys the staying in Donghua University.

Because her parents are climbing athletes, she has a kinship with rock climbing. As early as she learns to walk, she learns to climb. The influence of her parents and the deeper understanding of rock climbing afterward make her love it very much. Now, rock climbing has been an inseparable part of her daily life and affect her personality. Therefore, she is tender in heart but strong in willpower.

Like many other competitors, when asked about whether she thinks of giving up, she gives an unswerving no. In her eyes, that climbing up regardless of hardships and difficulties is the charm of rock climbing. It is cool to persist on and strive in the process.

For Julia, it is far from the end in the World University Sport Climbing Championship. After the lead final, she will strive for the champion in the bouldering final.

Julia is mild and friendly in talking with the reporters, which impresses the volunteers very much. Although she is a French, she talks with the reporters in English to make them known. This “girly girl” conquers the climbing wall with strong willpower and demonstrate the quality and enchantment as a champion as well.

In the competition, Julia's excellent performance catches the eyes of all the audience. We are convinced that she will make greater achievements in the future. Best wishes for her!

The Wonderful Life of the Volunteers

The First World University Sport Climbing Championship is near the end on October 15th, 2016. The games of the first four days are brilliant, wonderful and full of surprise. However, in addition to the wonderful games, the volunteers make contributions to the games and they gain much.

A team volunteer of France said that the experience as a volunteer is very memorable. In the process of getting along with the athletes, they are very warm and humorous, but they will ask a lot of questions which even the Chinese people are not necessarily concerned about, such as the population of Shanghai, the height of the Oriental Pearl Tower 3 tallest building, the number of students in Songjiang. And a series of previously never cared about the issue, which I learned to look at and think about the problem from a different perspective. Through to get along with them, I also have a better understanding of French culture, I hope there will be such an opportunity. "

A team volunteer of Austria said that he is learning German and has been looking for such opportunities. In order to do this work, I have searched many informations about the Austrian culture. In the volunteer period, they have a more personal experience of the Austrian culture, for example, athletes always sit quietly to focus on their teammates and cheer for them. They do not like to talk too much and prefer tranquil lifestyles. They speak vibrato, and sometimes they can only use English to solve problems. When it comes to the greatest harvest of volunteer time, he said, "It is to know that he does not know, whether in learning, or in dealing with various chores, they still have a lot of things to learn.

No pains no gains. I believe this experience is a kind of growth for each volunteer . They harvest the friendship and wonderful stories.
